Painted on the glass

*According to the legend Jánošík, robbed nobles and gave the loot to the poor.
Jánošík was recruited by the Habsburg army.
In autumn, 1710, as a young prison guard in Bytča he helped the imprisoned Tomáš Uhorčík to escape. They created a forest robber group and Jánošík became the leader at the age of 23, after Uhorčík left the group to settle in Kšenovec.*

Song: Prišli sme aj s muzikou do cirárskej Viedne...

*Most of their victims were rich merchants.
Under Jánošík's leadership the group was exceptionally chivalrous. They did not kill any of the robbed victims and even helped an accidentally injured priest. Despite the fact that Jánošík spent almost his whole life in the forests his home was where his dear Anička lived.*

Song: You women...

Jánošík was captured in spring of 1713 in Uhorčík's residence in Kšenovec. Uhorčík lived in Kšenovec under false name Martin Mravec at that time. According to a widespread legend, Jánošík was caught in a pub run by Tomáš Uhorčík, after slipping on spilled peas, thrown in his way by a treacherous old lady. Jánošík was imprisoned and tried in Liptovský Svätý Mikuláš. His trial took place on March 16 th and 17 th when he was sentenced to death. The date of his execution was not recorded, but it was customary to carry it out as soon as the trial was over. A legend says that he refused the grace offered in Exchange for enlisting soldiers of his abilities with the words: „If you baked me, so you should also eat me!“ and jumped on the hook,

Song: Zbohom bud'...

Song: You women, you women

*You are so false
For your love able to Do any other things.*

Unhappy boyfriends who have come to see you

*Nothing they can reach
Happiness don't feel.*

R/. Oh women, women, all the women

*Oh women, women, all the women
Why do you want to always win,*

Oh women, women, all the women

Oh women, women, all the women

Why do you want always to win,

Hey women, you women,

*How to come to you
All the days you quarrel
All the days you play*

Unhappy boyfriends who have come to see you

*Nothing they can reach
Happiness don't feel.*

Refrain...

Hey, hey, hey in the woods

*Nightingales are smiling
That the boys from those girls
Are getting almost silly*

*Quarrels in mornings, happiness at nights
Young boyfriends looking for happiness at life.*
